

It must be stressed that a mark scheme is a working document, in many cases further developed and expanded on the basis of candidates' responses to a particular paper. No assumptions about future mark schemes on the basis of this document should be made; whilst the guiding principles of assessment remain constant, details will change, depending on the content of a particular examination paper. The following is taken from one particular paper and is only one example of a passage and questions set in a particular year. The School holds the right to change the format of the questions to ensure we continue to correctly assess what candidates are capable of without any special preparation.
